

ABSTRACT

A method of cleaning treatment for removing a staining substance attached to the surface of a semiconductor wafer in a chamber for growing a crystal, which comprises supplying a material having etching ability and a material capable of growing a crystal at the same time onto the surface of the semiconductor wafer in a such manner that offers a good balance of an etching rate and a crystal growth rate. The method allows the removal of residual impurities with good efficiency.